A new wave of international interior design inspiration

Dodge Interiors has attended two of the world's most influential interior design shows, Decorex and Focus, to bring back to its customers in the South West the latest designs, trends and styles in soft furnishings.

Samantha Dodge, a fifth generation Dodge in the business, explains: "Each year we attend interior design shows in London and throughout the Country to gather new ideas and find out about the very latest trends from the design houses. In a similar way to the fashion industry, the styles introduced by British designers this autumn have been selected and are appearing in the shops and interiors magazines.

"It's a very exciting time of year for interiors as sample books bursting with new fabric swatches arrive, and the latest trends become apparent. We have been pouring over beautiful samples of linens and silks with embroidery that shows incredible attention to detail, and look forward to showing these to our customers who are of course welcome to browse and find inspiration for their homes with our team of experts."

One of the best received design ranges is from Colefax & Fowler. Intricate patterns in rich colours are printed on beautiful fabrics – ideal for stunning curtains or cushions - and these are complimented by a corresponding range of more simply designed, softer coloured fabrics – perfect for upholstery. Other fabric trends include bolder natural shades, including tones of hemp and taupe, faded linen prints, textured chenille and typically English floral prints.
