Dodge Interiors to offer ‘The Royal Collection’

Dodge Interiors has been handpicked as one of only 80 interior design specialists to supply The Royal Collection; a new array of rich and refined fabrics and wallpapers inspired by the official residences of Her Majesty The Queen. Adrian Dodge, owner and managing director of Dodge Interiors and his daughter Samantha Dodge were invited to Buckingham Palace in July where the Collection was unveiled.

This is the first time Royal archives have been uncovered to inspire an exclusive collection. The renowned Designers Guild, led by Tricia Guild and her design team, was chosen to create the Collection by drawing from the magnificent interiors of Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle and works of art in the Royal Collection.

Adrian Dodge comments: “I have worked closely with Tricia Guild, the founder and creative director of Designers Guild for over 30 years, and I’m honoured that Dodge Interiors has been chosen as one of only 80 design specialists to stock this inaugural collection. The beautiful swatch books have only just arrived in our shop and we have poured over the designs, each of which are unique and possess integrity and splendour, as well as being of the highest quality. This is an incredible addition to our range, and an amazing achievement for Dodge Interiors, which builds on our successes so far this year. We welcome people to visit our shop and see the designs for themselves.”

Designers Guild was given access to extensive archives of historic fabrics and wall coverings. This research has resulted in a cohesive collection of sophisticated fabrics and whilst being classically inspired by the royal palaces, they have a relevance to today’s world. The Collection includes jacquard woven silk damasks, embroidered silks, silk velvets, sumptuous jacquard velvets and wonderful flock printed and surface printed wallpapers.

The colour palette ranges from classic crimson and claret, emerald and forest green through to shades of Wedgwood and petrol blue, black and gold to softer shades of mink, stone and sable. The Royal Collection of fabrics and wallpapers is now being launched worldwide.
